Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security Act

The U.S. Senate on March 25 passed the $2-trillion Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security (CARES) Act to help stabilize workers, families, and the economy during the COVID-19 public health crisis. The U.S. House of Representatives is expected to vote on Friday, March 27.

Economic Support for Educators and Households

- Recovery rebates for each taxpayer of $1,200 ($2,400 for joint returns), and an additional $500 for every child under 17; rebates are reduced for higher-income taxpayers and begin phasing out after a single taxpayer has $75,000 in adjusted gross income ($112,500 for head of households and $150,000 for joint filers)
- Amounts will be based on 2018 tax returns; the rebate is reduced by $5 for each $100 by which a taxpayer’s income exceeds the phase-out threshold and completely phased out for single taxpayers with incomes exceeding $99,000 ($198,000 for joint filers)

Education Funding

- $30.7 billion for Education Stabilization Fund (ESF)
  - $3 billion for Emergency Education Relief grants to states to help LEAs and higher education institutions help provide educational services and support—and notes it can be used to protect educator jobs
  - $13.5 billion to K-12 education for the following allowable uses:
    - activities authorized by ESEA, IDEA, Adult Education and Family Literacy, Perkins CTE, and McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance
    - coordination efforts to prevent, prepare for, and respond to coronavirus
    - resources for principals and school leaders to the needs of their individual schools
    - activities and service delivery to address the unique needs of students that are low-income, children with disabilities, English learners, racial and ethnic minorities, the homeless, foster care youth
    - training and professional development on sanitation and minimizing spread of infectious disease
    - Purchasing supplies to clean and sanitize LEAs
    - Planning and coordination on providing meals and technology for online learning, including guidance on meeting IDEA requirements
    - Purchasing education technology including hardware, software, and connectivity
    - Providing mental health services
    - Planning summer learning, afterschool, or online learning during the summer months
Funds can be used to protect educator jobs

- $14.2 billion available for higher education emergency relief for institutions of higher education to prevent, prepare for, and respond to coronavirus. Funds may be used to defray expenses for institutions of higher education, such as lost revenue, technology costs associated with a transition to distance education, and grants to students for food, housing, course materials, technology, health care, and child care.
  - Part of these funds will be specifically targeted for historically black colleges and universities (HBCUs) and minority-serving institutions (MSIs)

Student Loans

- Six-month suspension of federal student loan payments and interest accrual (through September 30)
- Suspended monthly payments are considered as qualified payments toward achieving Public Service Loan Forgiveness
- Protects student borrowers from any involuntary collections, wage garnishments, reduction of tax refund, or reduction of federal benefit payment during the COVID-19 public health crisis
  - Informs borrowers of the program, not later than 15 days after enactment, and requires the Secretary of Education by August 1 to provide no less than six notices via postal mail, telephone, or electronic communication of when payment suspension concludes and options to enroll in federal income-driven repayment plans

Employer participation in student loan repayment:

- Enables employers to provide student loan repayment benefits to employees on a tax-free basis; an employer may contribute up to $5,250 annually towards and employee’s student loan, and such payment would be excluded from the employee’s income
- Applies to any student loan payments made by an employer on behalf of an employee after date of enactment and before January 1, 2021

Department of Education Regulations/Waivers

National Emergency ESSA/ESEA Waiver Authority

- Provides the Department of Education with emergency waiver authority for the 2019-2020 academic year of certain provisions of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA)
- Sets up a streamlined waiver process for statutory or regulatory requirements related to assessments, accountability and reporting requirements related to assessments and accountability

What can be waived:

- Statewide assessments required under ESSA
- Statewide accountability systems, including reporting of all students and student subgroups on statewide assessments, and indicators (including the Opportunity Indicator)
o Identification of schools for comprehensive, targeted, and additional targeted support and improvement and identification of consistently underperforming schools with struggling subgroups
o Resource allocation reviews and identification of resource inequities required for schools identified for additional targeted support and improvement and districts with high numbers of CSI/TSI schools
o School report card data pertaining to English learner progress toward proficiency, Opportunity Indicator(s), progress of all students and student subgroups toward meeting State-identified long-term goals, students assessed and not assessed, and more

• Requires the Secretary of Education and state and local educational agencies to publicly report and provide the public the opportunity to comment on the waiver requests and approvals or denials of those requests

Homework Gap

• Glaringly missing are dedicated funds for the Homework gap, e.g. $2 billion for the E-rate for schools to get Wi-Fi hotspots to students
• While the $13.5 Education Stabilization Fund for K-12 includes purchasing education technology (hardware, software and connectivity) as an allowable use, there is not a dedicated fund to ensure the homework gap is addressed
• Department of Agriculture Rural Development bill provides $25 million to support the Distance Learning and Telemedicine program o Related, but not immediately helpful for the homework gap is a $100 million provided to the ReConnect program to ensure rural Americans have access to broadband
